

Using Tax Savings to Buy Your New Aircraft

Due to Favorable Depreciation and Interest Rates, Tax Savings Can Exceed Payment Cost for the First Five Years.

New aircraft purchased in 2008 generally qualify for 50% bonus depreciation. The balance of the cost is generally recovered over a five year period or an accelerated basis. In addition, for acquisitions during 2008, a small business, (defined as a taxpayer that invests less than $1,050,000 in capital improvements in a tax year), can write off up to $250,000, before calculating depreciation on the balance. Although the Internal Revenue Code provides for an accelerated cost recovery method for aircraft, commercial financing is generally available with minimal down payments and 20 year amortization with low interest rates. Through this combination of favorable financing and very rapid tax depreciation recovery, it is often possible for an aircraft owner to have little, if any invested beyond tax savings for the first five years of ownership. An example is illustrated in the chart below.

Acclaim - cost $579,900 acquire 07/01/08, 6.0% interest, 10% down, 20 year amortization.

The preceding chart outlines the tax results that an aircraft used 100% for business purposes. The decision on how to acquire an aircraft should be made with care including consideration of not just federal income tax consequences, but also FAA issues, liability issues, state and local tax issues, federal excise tax issues, and operation and financial considerations.
